EPLEFPA DE BAZAS

Our Institution, dating from 1964, is a local public agricultural and forestry school of about 220 students aged 15 to 20 situated in Bazas in the South West of France, 60 km South East of Bordeaux.

Bazas is close to the largest cultivated forest massif in Europe and is located in an agricultural area specialised in farming cattle breeding.

Attached to our school is a horse-riding club and a farm with Bazadaise Beef Breed. Both are used as training places for our students.

We've been keeping close links with the agricultural and forestry professional fields for many years now.

We teach our students agriculture (animal breeding: mainly horse and cattle breeding) and forestry (forest works, forest management) at different levels.

We offer Vocational Training Certificates (three years) specialised in farm management and animal breeding and also in forest works. We also have a two-year graduate programme specialised in forest management.

Finally we offer a three-year degree course specialised in sciences, technology and agronomy.

We also have a training centre for adults or apprentices who want to specialise in forest works, forestry and forest management.
